Workshop: Presentation impact

Trainer: Hugh Vivian, rockSalt

Monday, 25 October 2010

What the session is about: The session will be a practical, challenging and thought-provoking workshop on how to present with impact. The session will help practitioners to consider how clear and memorable their message is when they present, what their individual presentation style is, and how they can make their style and their presentations more convincing.

The speaker: The workshop will be given by Hugh Vivian of rockSALT Limited, a training and coaching company which specialises in improving verbal impact to improve both presentations and general communication as a way of enhancing an individual's work performance. Hugh, who is the founder of rockSALT, specialises in training, coaching and performance management, and has a Masters in Human Resources Management. Hugh's experience of people management is very broad, having been a Human Resources Manager for Barclays Capital in the City, and also an Army officer leading and managing units of up to 110 Royal Engineers

Why members should attend: When practitioners make presentations to clients or colleagues, they tend to know their subject in depth and the points that they wish to make. However, what they are not always quite so good at is in assessing the impact they actually make and how in fact they come across. Uninspiring presentations can undermine the message, so having self-awareness is extremely important as a presenter. This workshop will provide an opportunity for practitioners to consider the effectiveness of their presentation style, and should be of use to any practitioner, no matter how experienced in giving presentations.

This workshop will begin at 6.15 p.m. at the offices of Nabarro LLP, Lacon House, 84 Theobald's Road, WC1X 8RW. One hour of CPD is available (ref JC/CWHLS) - please give your roll number when attending. The cost is £22 for members of this Society, £36 for non members and £10 for students with refreshments available from 6.00 pm.
